A Note on Black History Month

In February we celebrate Black History Month. All year-round, LBGTQ+ Services aims to highlight the contributions of Black LBGTQ+ activists. Black History Month is an opportunity for us to highlight that work which is too often forgotten and erased from history.

Black people have always been at the center of the LBGTQ+ liberation movement and we would not be where we are today without their incredible leadership. Today, Black LBGTQ+ activists continue to fight for rights and freedom of the entire LBGTQ+ community.

Welcome Back
Welcome back for the Spring semester! We hope you all had the opportunity to relax and unwind during the Winter break. We understand that it can be daunting to return to a busy academic and extracurricular schedule. During this time, remember to be patient and kind to yourself as you would be to a friend. Set yourself up for a great semester by reaching out to friends and taking time to do something for yourself.

Wishing you all a successful Spring semester!

February LBGTQ+ Book Recs.

“How’s Talk About Love”

Alice is done with dating. But then Alice meets Takumi and she can't stop thinking about him or the rom com-grade romance feels she did not ask for. When her blissful summer takes an unexpected turn and Takumi becomes her knight with a shiny library-employee badge (close enough), Alice has to decide if she's willing to risk their friendship for a love that might not be reciprocated—or understood.

“All Boys Aren’t Blue”

In his groundbreaking young adult memoir, prominent writer and LGBTQIA+ activist George M. Johnson shares both glorious and gut-wrenching memories of growing up Black and queer in America. From getting bullied at age five, to visiting flea markets with his loving grandmother, to the thrilling frontiers of first relationships, Johnsons's early life is a profound tapestry of everyday experiences.
