///WELCOME

Black Heritage Month

February is Black Heritage Month: a celebration of achievements by African Americans and a time for recognizing their central role in U.S. history.

For black queer and trans people, this month can be a complicated one due to their intersecting identities of gender and/or sexuality in relation to their race/ethnicity (much like many QTPoC). If you're looking for community, LBGTQ+ Services has a brand new QTPoC page [lgbtq.mit.edu/qt poc](http://lgbtq.mit.edu/qt poc) and make sure to check our programming for events.

Black LBGTQ+ Conversations

The Office of Multicultural Programs is putting on a series of MIT Black Community Conversations. Join Lauryn McNair (she/they) and DJ Rock (they/them) in a 90 minute workshop and discussion on being black and queer as well as tips and best practices for creating intersectional LBGTQ+ inclusive environments. Open to MIT students in the community.

Thursday, February 25th at 8pm EST.

February LBGTQ+ Book Recs.

Zami: A New Spelling of My Name by Audre lorde

TAGS: Lesbian, Black, Non-Fiction

Zami: A New Spelling of My Name is a 1982 biomythography by American poet Audre Lorde. From the author's vivid childhood memories in Harlem to her coming of age in the late 1950s, the nature of Audre Lorde's work is cyclical.

Arc 1: The Secret Ingredient Is Love. No, Really (Stake Sauce) by RoAnna Sylver

TAGS: Asexual, White, Fantasy

Jude used to leap out of helicopters, but now he's a mall cop with PTSD fighting vampires. One day, he meets Pixie, a vampire who won't bite others. And Pixie could use some help staying 'alive.' Time for a deal.
